

Abstract

An error detector comprising an input port for receiving encoded data and an error checking unit for identifying an error detection bit within the encoded data. The error detection unit also determining whether the error detection bit is valid and passing the 5 encoded block to one of a plurality of decoders based on the level .